Picking the perfect pork

It's time to get better pork on your plate with these hot buying tips.

- Fat is your friend. Look for small flecks or marbling in your pork as fat is flavour.
- The secret to the juiciest pork is the colour. Keep an eye out for pork that is pinkish-red, as the deeper-coloured cuts are better at holding moisture when cooked.
- Steer clear of meat that has dark spots on the fat.

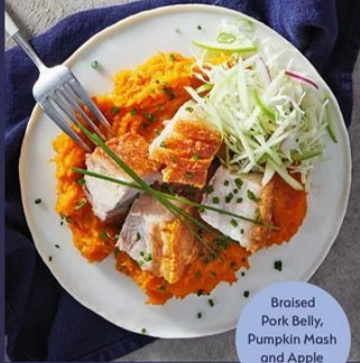

Prepping pork

When life permits, taking the time to marinate your pork is a great way to ensure tenderness and flavour.

- As a rule of thumb, aim for ¼ cup of marinade per half kilogram of pork.
- Ziplock bags are a great mess-free way to marinate. Plus, they make it easy to remove as much air as possible, forcing the marinade to mingle with the meat.
- Ideally, marinate for 2-4 hours and avoid leaving longer than overnight.

Plating up pork

Finding the right cooking temperature is the final step to plating perfectly succulent pork. And a meat thermometer is a great way to do so.

For fresh pork, aim for anything over 63°C as this is the safe internal cooking temperature for cuts like chops, roasts, loins and tenderloins.

Once cooked, rest for three minutes and enjoy!
